THE PENNIMAN MEMORIAL LIBRARY OF EDUCATION OF YALE UNIVERSITY

WITH the starting of the new Department of Education, Dr. James Hosmer Penniman, Yale 1884, established at Yale a Library of Education in memory of his parents, James Lanman Penniman, Yale 1853, and Maria Davis Hosmer. Dr. Penniman had already given to the University of Pennsylvania in memory of his mother a Library of Education now numbering some 12,000 volumes.

For Yale Dr. Penniman is taking as a basis the books on Education already at Yale, numbering about 20,000 volumes, which are to form a part of and be known as the Penniman Memorial Library of Education. He has undertaken to develop the collection until it is one of the largest and finest in the country. Plans are being made for the housing of this Library near the seminary rooms and studies of the Department of Education in the new Sterling Memorial Library, adjoining similar collections in Philosophy, Psychology, Economics, and other related subjects. In the meantime Dr. Penniman is enlarging the Penniman Library at present housed in the Old Library, and has purchased and temporarily placed in the Education Building at 28 Hillhouse Avenue such books, magazines, and reports as are needed for constant use.

During the present academic year Dr. Penniman's gift numbers about fifteen hundred volumes, and includes all important current publications on Education. They deal chiefly with the subjects studied in the Department of Education, that is, with the organization and administration of schools, the principles and methods of teaching, educational history and psychology, and so on. The few now shown are of general interest. They are incunabula and other fine or unusual specimens of book making; autograph letters; and some of the older educational treatises.

This check list was compiled by Miss Mary Withington, who also arranged and described the exhibits.

8. FASCICULUS TEMPORUM. (The Faggott of the Ages.)

Fasciculus Temporum. [Strassburg, Johann Prüss, c. 1484.]

Fasciculus temporum omnes anti/quorum cronicas complectens

Quarto of 96 leaves, bound in new calf.

The author was Werner Rolewinck, a Carthusian monk of Laer in Westphalia, c. 1425-1502. The first edition was issued in 1474. This edition, without imprint, is printed with the types of Johann Prüss of Strassburg, and as the last date (f.96b) is 1484, was printed probably about that year.

The woodcuts are interesting examples of the art, showing the transition from the earlier style of the playing-card makers to the conventional manner of book illustration. Like all the earlier illustrated books, one cut is made to represent different subjects. For example, the cut which first appears as Nineveh, subsequently re-appears as Athens, Rome, Lyons, etc. The frontispiece shows the author presenting his book to an emperor. (Hain 6916)

9. GREGORIUS I, the Great, Saint, Pope c. 540-604.

Pfefferkorn was a convert to Catholicism from Judaism, and was baptized at Cologne in 1505. He was convinced that the principal source of the obduracy of the Jews lay in their books, and in the year in which this pamphlet appeared he got from Emperor Maximilian authority to seize and destroy all Jewish books directed against the Christian faith.

In Der Judenfeind he maintains that the Jews must not be allowed to practise usury, or to amass wealth in other ways, but must either be expelled or assigned to the lowest work.

20. DIODORUS SICULUS, 1st cent. B.C.

[London] In ædibus Richardi Tottelli, [1554.]

Folio, bound in half morocco. Printed in Black Letter. Title in woodcut border, nine other woodcuts.

The first leaf of the table is supplied from another edition.

About the beginning of the fifteenth century John Lydgate opened a school at the Abbey of Bury St. Edmund's, in which he taught languages, rhetoric, and versification.

26. FERRONUS, ARNOLDUS (Le Ferron, Arnoul), 1515-1563.

Arnoldi Ferroni Bvrdigalensis, Regii Consiliarii, De rebvs gestis gallorvm libri IX. Ad Historiam Pavli Aemylii additi, perducta historia usque ad tempora Henrici II. Francorum Regis. Tertia editio nunc recèns aucta & recognita.
Lvtetiae, Michaelis Vascosani, 1555.

This is a continuation of a Latin history of France, written by order of the King, by Emilio, an Italian historian who moved to Paris in 1495.

On the title-page is the autograph of Roger Ascham, who formerly owned the book. He was the greatest classical scholar in England in the Elizabethan period, was Master of Languages to Princess (afterwards Queen) Elizabeth,

Latin Secretary to Queen Mary and Secretary to Queen Elizabeth. The Dictionary of National Biography says "The beauty of his handwriting also brought him much employment as the writer of official letters in behalf of the university [of Cambridge]."

The volume contains also "Hieronymi Ferrarii Ad Pavlvm Manvtivm Emendationes in Philippicas Ciceronis," printed in Paris in 1543 by Robert Estienne.

27. GELLI, GIOVANNI BATTISTA, 1498-1563.

Circes of Iohn Baptista Gello, Florentyne. Translated out of Italyon, into Englyshe by Henry Iden. [London,] 1557.

Small octavo, bound in half vellum. Printed in Black Letter.

First English edition, very rare. Autograph of John Wynne, 1683 and 1684, on title-page.

28. CALVIN, JOHN, 1509-1564.

Institution of Christian Religion. [London, 1578?]

Octavo. Title-page lacking.

This, Calvin's most important work, was the first systematic and thorough defence of Protestantism that had appeared.

29. BRINSLEY, JOHN, fl. 1663.

Lvdvs Literarivs; or, The Grammar Schoole; Shewing how to proceede from the first entrance into learning, to the highest perfection required in the Grammar Schooles . . .

London, Imprinted by Felix Kyngston for William Leake, 1627.

Small quarto, bound in old calf.

The author was Master of the School at Ashby-de-la-Zouch, until he was ejected, about 1620, for his religious opinions.

30. BACON, FRANCIS, Viscount St. Albans, 1561-1626.

Of the Advancement and Proficience of Learning, or, The Partitions of Science, IX Bookes. Written in Latin by the Most Eminent Illustrious & Famous Lord Francis Bacon . . . Interpreted by Gilbert Wats.
Oxford, Printed by Leon Lichfield, 1640.

Small folio, bound in calf.

Engraved title-page, and frontispiece portrait of the author, by W. Marshall.

The Advancement of Learning was written in English, and was published in 1605. It appeared in a second edition in 1629, and in a third edition in 1633. In the meantime the book had been expanded, remodelled, and translated into Latin under Bacon's supervision, and in 1623 it appeared in Latin under the title "De Augmentis Scien-tiarum." This is the new and enlarged work, translated into English by Gilbert Watts.

31. ERASMUS, DESIDERIUS, d. 1536.

Magni Des. Erasmi Roterodami Vita; Partim ab ipsomet Erasmo, partim ab amicis æqualibus fideliter descripta. Accedunt Epistolæ Illustres . . . P. Scriverii, & Fautorum auspiciis.

London, Printed by J. R. for William Lee, 1670.

Folio, bound in calf, with added title-page engraved and frontispiece, portrait of the author.

The History Natural and Experimental and the Articles of Enquiry have special title-pages with the imprint: London, Printed for William Lee, 1669.

The Sylva Sylvarum is a miscellaneous collection of observations and experiments in natural history. It is probably the best and most complete single collection of the kind that up to that time had been published.

The New Atlantis appended to the work is one of the most popular of Bacon's works, and it is credited with having, to a large extent, suggested the foundation and programme of the Royal Society.

34. HERBERT, EDWARD, First Baron Herbert of Cherbury, 1583-1648.

The Life and Reign of King Henry the Eighth. Written by the Right Honourable Edward Lord Herbert of Cherbury.

London, 1672.

Horace Walpole called this work "a master-piece of historic biography."

35. [CLIFFORD, MARTIN,] d. 1677.

A Treatise of humane reason.

London, Printed for Henry Brome, 1675.

16mo, bound in calf. Published anonymously.

The author was Master of Charterhouse, 1671.

The volume contains also the anonymous answer published in the same year entitled: "Observations upon a treatise intituled, Of humane reason" and now found to be by Edward Stephens, who published a great many pamphlets on religious and political subjects.

36. COCKER, EDWARD, 1631-1675.

Cockers Accomplish'd School-Master: containing sure and easie directions for spelling, reading, and writing English; According to the most plain and accurate method now extant . . .

London, Printed for J. Back, 1696.

Small octavo, bound in original calf, with portrait and woodcuts.

The author was a teacher of arithmetic and penmanship in London from before 1657 to 1665.

37. FABLES.

[A series of thirty-five engravings by Jacob Matham, Willem Hondt, and others, illustrating Fables, with the text in Latin, French, German, and Dutch, on the reverse of each plate.]

The volume has no title-page, and no place or date of printing. Matham lived in the latter half of the sixteenth century, and Hondt in the beginning of the seventeenth.

38. HATTON, EDWARD.

An Intire System of Arithmetic: or, Arithmetic in all its Parts. . . . The whole intermix'd with rules new, curious, and useful, mostly accounted for in the Preface . . .
London, 1721.

Quarto, bound in stamped calf. With diagrams and engraved frontispiece portrait of the author by W. Sherwin. First edition.

39. OXFORD UNIVERSITY.

University Education: or, An Explication and Amendment of the Statute which, . . . prohibits the Admission of Scholars going from One Society to Another without the Leave of their respective Governors, or of their Chancellor, Humbly Propos'd To the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, as a Means Necessary to the Good Education of Youth in the said University . . . By R. Newton . . .
London, Printed for G. Strahan, 1726.

Richard Newton, D.D., Principal of Hart Hall, was an educational reformer, and tried to establish Hart Hall as a college for poor students.

40. CLARK, JOHN, 1687-1734.

An Essay upon the Education of Youth in Grammar-Schools. In which the Vulgar Method of Teaching is examined, and a New one proposed . . . By John Clarke, Master of the Public Grammar-School in Hull. The Second Edition. With very Large Additions . . . London: Printed for Arthur Bettesworth, 1730.
